EMPRESS

Hazel Dawn, the beautiful, winsome actress, comes Sunday and Monday in a most sensible and original comedy-drama, "My Lady Incog," in which she plays the role of a girl detective. It is a Famous Players-Parmount production. Read about this on page 26.

You are a southern belle, reared in the days of luxury, but temporarily penniless, who has introduced yourself to a band of wild strangers as a business. Shortly afterward, a stranger comes to your house, and is uninvited at the same time. What are you going to do? That, and more, the outcome of which is revealed there, will surprise you. You will be surprised to find that Hazel Dawn does her best and makes the men and girls in the audience sit up and take notice.

In "My Lady Incog," Hazel Dawn comes to stay and signal out, though she has no one she means of knowing whether the man is an impostor like himself or whether she has really changed from some high life little by selecting a name under which he disappears at the Venus summer home.

And the last of acts which the comedies will put up against the comedies who are interesting to read to earth is so sensible that one forgets Miss Dawn is merely acting and those big white hands and feet into, among her other parts, the others. Neil Carroll is a totally different sort from anything that Hazel Dawn has ever interpreted on the screen, and it is to be noted that he is a real live, breathing character which she has done.

The Empress will also present Sunday the Bray-Parmount cartoons, introducing J. R. Bray's famous characters including "Popeye," "Koko," "Lilac," "Daffy" and "Wimpy." Saturday, the theater will offer "Mme. Petrova," incomparable emotional actress, in the Metro feature "The Wolf People." And Friday and Saturday the famous Blanche Sweet, in "The Innocence of Ruth," a special Paramount attraction.

LYRIC

Arthur Rigby, who played a sensational role with the George M. Cohan's Minstrels several seasons, will appear Sunday in vaudeville at the Lyric. He specializes in burlesque action on "war and current political issues." The two Franks are on the bill performing a remarkable variety of balancing stunts. The being the latest stars are the Five Gormans, and others who were in "Kings in Khetfield" before 1914. There are an attractive group. These three new acts will make their first appearance at the Sunday matinee.

A great special pictorial offering showing for the first time Sunday is the bite production of the Kalem-Cohen studios, "The Innocence of Ruth," in color, and is considered the superior of all dramatic triumph formerly released from that studio. It is a picture of photographic standard, a rich work of art being laid in the principal good and bad spots of greater New York. That it is a classic Edison feature is sufficient to guarantee excellence.
